When are you leaving on your trip? It has been along time since I have been to Frankenmuth Michigan so I asked my sister (who goes at least once a year ) which restaurant she recommends and she said Bavarian Inn. She also reminded me that they have neat covered bridge which is nice to take a walk over. hopefully the fall colors will be nice but you may be there after the peak. Make sure you go to Bronners. here's a little info

- Settled in 1845 with 15 original settlers
- "Franken" is the province from which the settlers came: "Muth" means courage in German. The name Frankenmuth means "Courage of the Franconians"
- Over 2 million people visit Frankenmuth each year
- 2 million chicken dinners are served every year (700 Tons of Chicken)
- Bavarian Inn & Zehnders combined can seat 2,500 people at once
- Bronner's CHRISTmas Wonderland has a showroom the size of 5.5 football fields
- 500 styles of Nativity scenes are on display at Bronner's

Generous portions of traditional New England fare, including fresh seafood and homemade dessert. Served by spicy waitresses at family-style tables. MC, VI.
- 5:00 Browse Faneuil Market
- Boston National Historic Park Visitor's Center – p. 107

15 State Street, across from the Old State House. Phone (617) 242-5642.
See 8-minute slide show to get overview of Boston's Colonial history.
Clean, public restrooms – use them before beginning the walk! Pack drinks/snacks in diaper bag.

- 10:00 Freedom Trail – p. 107, 113-114
Begins at information center on the Common. Phone 242-5642.
Free 90 minute walking tour offered at 10, 11, 1 and 2 on Sundays, conducted by Park Rangers.
Follow the red line to sites, which include:
Boston Common – 44 acres of property kept as “common” ground for the benefit, or punishment, of citizens. Cattle and sheep grazed there, soldiers trained, and miscreants were put in stocks or executed beneath its trees.
Shaw Memorial – a bronze bas-relief recalling the first black regiment to serve in the Civil War – p. 112.
State House – Note the copper-clad dome, forged in Paul Revere's foundry and painted gold after the Civil War. This building became the model for others like it throughout the colonies, including the US Capitol. Statues, historical paintings, battle flags and war relics displayed inside. Free admission. (Closed Sundays).
Park Street Church – Built in 1809, this was the scene of William Lloyd Garrison's first anti-slavery address in 1829.
Granury Burying Ground – Interred on the grounds are three signers of the Declaration of Independence – John Hancock, Samuel Adams, and Robert Treat Paine – as well as Paul Revere, Peter Faneuil, Boston Massacre victims, and Benjamin Franklin's parents. *Gravestone rubbings are not permitted in this or any other Boston cemetery– p. 108.
King's Chapel – The wooden original was erected in 1687, the first Anglican Church in America. Since the puritan settlers had fled England to get away from what they considered Anglican heresy, the church was not welcomed. The present granite building was erected around the original structure, to avoid interrupting services. The old building was then torn down and passed, piece by piece, through the windows – p. 69AE.
Old City Hall – Note the two statues in front. One is of Benjamin Franklin, who despite being so closely associated with Philadelphia, was born in Boston. The other is Josiah Quincy, Boston's second mayor and the builder of Quincy Market, soon to be seen on this walk – p. 70AE.
Old Corner Bookstore – (at the end of School Street, on the left) occupied in 1833 by publishers Ticknor and Fields, it subsequently became the meeting place of several of that firm's most renowned authors, including Ralph Waldo Emerson, James Russell Lowell, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Henry David Thoreau, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, John Whittier, Alfred Tennyson, Robert Browning, and Harriet Beecher Stowe. Even Charles Dickens dropped by – p. 70AE.
Old South Meeting House – The second oldest church in the city, “Old South” became a principal meeting place for agitated Bostonians during the years before the revolution. The Boston Tea Party was launched from behind these doors – p. 70AE.

Old State House – In 1776, the new Declaration of Independence was first read from the balcony at the harbor end of the building. Notice the silver unicorn and golden lion on the roofline. These are replicas of the originals, which were torn down and burned during the Revolution as symbols of the hated monarchy. —pp. 70-71AE.

Faneuil Hall – focal point for Boston’s #1 tourist attraction, Faneuil Hall Market Place. The statue in front is of Sam Adams – p. 72AE.

Paul Revere House – The oldest house in downtown Boston, it was built in 1680, almost 100 years before being bought by Paul Revere. This is where Revere raised his 16 children (by two wives), although they did not all live here at the same time. This was the waterfront in his time, all of the land on the other side of the square being later created by landfill. House contains 17th and 18th-century furnishings. Admission: $2.50 adults, $1 ages 5-17. – p.111, p. 72AE.

Old North Church – The first peal on this continent sounded from this church in 1744. On the evening of April 18, 1775, a sexton displayed two lanterns in the steeple to signal the departure of the British from Boston. Call (617) 523-6676 for information about “Paul Revere Tonight” and “Behind the Scenes” – p.110.

Charles River Dam Visitor’s Information Center – Free tour available daily 9-3. Phone (617) 727-1188, ext. 445 – p. 103

Charlestown Navy Yard

USS Constitution – 54-gun frigate nicknamed Old Ironsides due to its engagements with the British in the War of 1812. It is purportedly the oldest commissioned ship in the world. Constructed of live oak and red cedar timbers secured by bolts and copper sheathing made by Paul Revere, it was first launched in 1797. Free admission. – p. 106.

Bunker Hill Monument – Marks site of the Battle of Bunker Hill, fought June 17, 1775. Open daily 9-4:30. Free Admission. – p. 103.
